Title: Awakening

Introduction

We are living in the age of digital information. The development of information technology has easily brought us into tons of news, contents and photos on social media which can be seen in daily life. Each day, we scroll our smartphone to see too much information as the river that flows through our brains. It's the fact that humankind has never faced over and over information like this before. Though this phenomenon has ignited many opportunities for us, it also changes our behaviors.

Principles / Concept

A reflection on the individual state and the modern way of life that is tied to technology and the consumption of large amounts of information in the vertical plane by choosing a photographic process.
