

Title

A Greeting Culture in Age of Covid 19

Introduction

Every culture has their own sort of person-to-person greeting. Since the outbreak of the Covid19, this crisis is influencing ways people connect, but for some cultures, no-contact greetings already exist. For example, The Wai is a Thai greeting gesture derived from Indian tradition, also used to thank, apologise, and venerate. According to the Covid19 situation and to avoid contacting others to prevent spreading the virus, Wai is becoming a new way among the westerner to greet as to keep the social distancing between people. Thai Wai is contactless greetings but it is as warm as a hug. Covid 19 has no boundaries, no culture, We must fight the enemy on the same terms to stop Covid 19 spread. We keep protecting ourselves, therefore others

Principles / Concept

Warm greeting

Process / Methodology

Cutting and rearranging and overlapping photographs of World Leaders overlaying into a mask image, a face shield and a sensitiser

Materials and Techniques

Digital Photo Montage.

Results / Conclusion

Thai Wai is contactless greetings that preventing the spread of the virus.